A Card.

To my friends who supported me in the canvass just past, I return my thanks. It is true, that it was not a bloody fight, nor were there many scalps taken. The Era man says, that in ten precincts I did not get a single vote; well, this may be true, out where I waged this war I find I received as many votes as either of the candidates in the field, who ran for the same office. While my friends, I think, will be satisfied with the vote, I am confident had I not been so shamefully bulldozed out of the nomination at the hands of the Democratic convention, I should to-day be the successful candidate, the Era to the contrary notwithstanding. I tender to my friends my thanks, and for the future let us work for the good of the whole people of this county.
